(11 October 2015)

The Ecumenical Federation of Constantinopolitans expresses its utmost anguish after the deadly terrorist attack which took place today in Ankara adding another act in the continuing violence of the last months in Turkey. We strongly condemn, as always, all terrorist attacks and inhumane and cruel acts which escalate violence. We express our sincere condolences and sympathies to the families of the victims, the people and the government of Turkey. At times like these, there is nothing more to say except from asking from everybody to do everything possible, to stop the violence on the holy land of Anatolia.

Why the past should not be forgotten.
Remedy-Reparations for past injustices.

“Atrocities in the past must be recognized, documented and learned from - but not distorted or misused for political purposes”

Thomas Hammarberg, 2010

Commissioner of Human Rights of Council of Europe

Despite the progress of respective human rights based on the landmark of European Convention on Human Rights (1950) the issue of Remedy and Reparations towards the victims of the massive scale violations remain in a state of flux. This is a serious weakness of the whole institution of Human Rights. The promise to respect the human rights in future is vague if REMEDY and REPARATIONS of past injustices are not implemented.

Important Observations on the reasons of anti-Minority policies in the Republic of Turkey

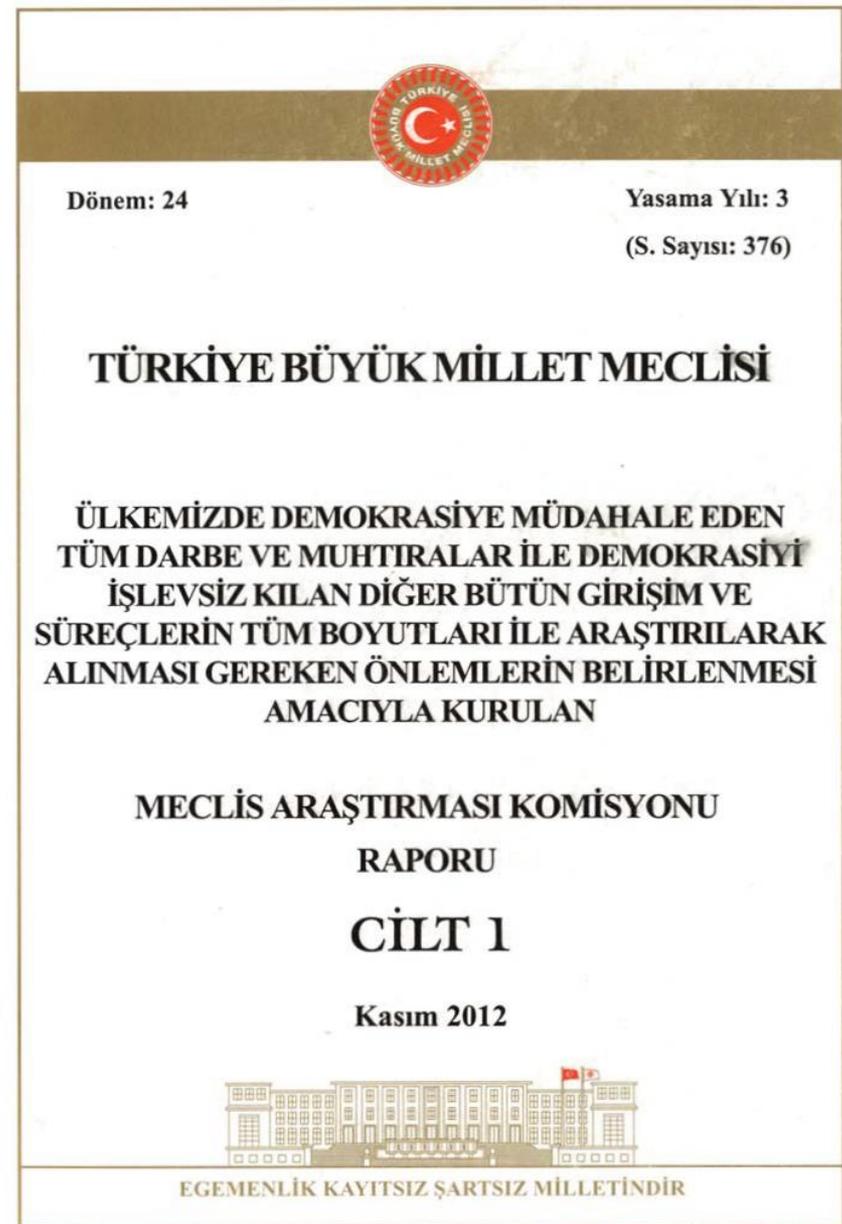

- During the period 1923-2003 the State Policy Considered the Minorities being as “internal problem sources ” and “potential threats”. Implementation of a long-term plan to banish minorities while the Greek-Orthodox Minority being the “priority target”, despite the fact that the Greeks, subject to Lausanne Treaty, were the most lawful citizens.

- The persecution of Greek Minority has nothing to do with the bilateral relations between Turkey-Greece and the Cyprus issue. The timing of the persecution measures was coordinated with the tension between Greece and Turkey. This fact is proved that most of the anti-minority measures were implemented under good relations between Greece and Turkey.

The Grand National Assembly of Turkey published in November 2012 a very important two volume high volume report on the interventions against the democracy in Turkey.

In this report the Pogrom of 6-7 September 1955 are considered as the starting point of the acts of derailing the democracy in the country.

Therefore it should be understood that the persecutions against the Greek-Orthodox Communities of Turkey has been part of the severe violations of human rights and undemocratic developments in Turkey during 20th Century.

The Principle of Remedy and Reparations

- Despite the fact that the principles of human dignity, freedom, democracy, equality, the rule of law and respect for human rights are the values on which the European Union is founded, since 1950 much ground has been covered towards protecting human rights and by comparison, rather little attention has been paid to the remedy and reparation of the communities who have been victims of gross human rights violations in past. In the absence of remedy and reparations, the institutionalized human rights protection becomes vague since the results of gross human violations become fait accompli, considering the irreversibility of the perpetrators planned acts.
- Despite the significant efforts by the United Nations special bodies on the development of transitory legal framework such as the U.N. General Assembly Resolution 60/147 on the European Continent, no progress has been achieved in developing rules as to how this Resolution will be implemented in practice.
- The case of Greek Community of Istanbul, together with the Greek Communities of the two Aegean islands Gokceada-Imbros and Bozcada-Tenedos belonging to Turkey, is a typical one.

The Efforts of EFC towards the Government of Rep. of Turkey

- Starting May 2010 for the first time Higher Authorities of the Government of Turkey held meetings with the representatives of EFC both in Ankara and Istanbul, Turkey.
- EFC stressed many times the imperative necessity of reparations and remedy towards the Greek-Orthodox Community of Istanbul citing the massive scale of human and minority rights violations during the extensive period after 1923. The facts surrounding these violations have been well documented as proved by state archives of Turkey and are directly linked with the degradation of human rights. As a matter of fact, in the case of non-Muslim minorities, the acts of the “Special Minorities Community” during the years 1962-2004 which had the power to supersede all the legislative, executive and judiciary authorities were decisive.
- Following a growing-up period during 2010-13, EFC in September 2013 submitted a detailed report to the Government of Turkey on priority remedy measures towards both the expatriated and currently living in Istanbul community . These will be presented in the subsequent slides.

Additionally the following key problems should be addressed by the Turkish Government

- The recognition of the legal status of the Ecumenical Patriarchate.
- The return of the Greek community's welfare foundation real estates. Although positive steps has been taken there are many pending cases not covered with present legislation. Only 20% of the properties confiscated by the 1974 Higher Court based on the argument that minority members are "foreigner citizens" were returned. Especially the cases of the historic Monasteries, most of them of Byzantine era, having declared as "abandoned" as early as 1930's and the 3 churches with their real estate belongings at the Karaköy region of Istanbul, illegally occupied by the Eftim Karahisaridi family in the name of a bogus church, should be resolved by the recognition of their ownership to the Greek Community of Istanbul.
- The reopening of Heybeliada - Halki Theological School. The continuing closure of this School is a severe violation of Religious Rights and restriction on the Ecumenical Patriarchate, an institution of 17 centuries old, carrying an all world peace and mutual understanding effort.

- The 3 years prohibition of the elections at the Minority Welfare Foundations is a very negative development and erasing the positive developments achieved during 2004-2011. Despite all the promises given by the authorities, the continuation of the problem verifies the allegations that some Welfare administrators are interfering while the rule of Law principle is being violated. This is a very urgent issue which must be solved.
- Government should take initiatives to encourage the appointment to public service, members of non-Muslim minorities which in the past have been prohibited to take official positions, based on secret decrees, despite the fact they were citizens of the Republic of Turkey.
- The possibility of unification of Welfare Foundations with similar activities in the same geographical area.

“The most urgent needed measures of Remedy and Reparations”

Nicolaos Anagnostopoulos
General Secretary of EFC

Proposals Submitted to Government of Turkey by EFC on Remedy and Reparations (1)

Restitutions of Citizenships: taking into account the massive expulsion of members of the Community during the period 1963-1980 this is highly necessary as remedy measure.

Results: citizenship is being restored by including the younger generations despite the fact there are several bureaucratic difficulties, for example the non-ability to gain citizenship form the maternal side.

There is a serious issue on non-equal treatment in case of provision the “Blue Card” arrangement.

Restitution of Ownership Rights: Considering the fact that there are serious and extensive pending issues on the private real estate ownerships of the Community members, as a result of the exodus under panic conditions occurred during 1963-1990's, the establishment of a service provision office under the authority of Ombudsman was proposed. This is highly important since the last years there is a "black market" exploitation practice by several groups using various illegal methods to exploit the owners.

Results: The Ombudsman sent circulars to Land Registry and during the previous summer went about arresting those who illegally attained ownerships in Istanbul. However the establishment of a Service Provision Office for expatriated citizens to support them to acquire their unattended properties and guarantee their rights, remains a very urgent matter

The Discriminatory Attitude on the Rights of ex-Citizens of Turkey in the case of the Expatriated Greek-Orthodox Community Members.

Through the Citizenship Law 5901 (article 28) of Turkey by issuing a “blue card” all the civil rights are guaranteed (except electing and to be elected) to ex-citizens of the country provided they have left their citizenship after approval of the state. Although this law has no exception for any country, this circular deprives the ex-citizens holding presently the citizenships of Greece, Bulgaria and Romania from this right. In case of the Greek-Orthodox Community this right is very important to support the repatriation as a supportive interim measure.

The Support of Repatriation of the Greek-Orthodox Community of Istanbul as well as the islands of Gokceada-Imbros and Bozcaada-Tenedos: As Council of Europe Commission against Racism and Intolerance in 2009 stressed the severe depletion of the Greek Orthodox community and that “urgent action is needed if it is to survive”. This means that an extensive program of repatriation in particular towards to the young generation members is urgently needed.

Results: Although there has been no direct response to this vital proposal recently an educational visit of 20 young members of the expatriate Community was supported by the Directorate of Citizens of Turkey Abroad operating under the Prime Minister of Turkey. Although this is a very limited action it shows the feasibility of a such project and the interested of young expatriated Community member for repatriation.

WHAT IS NEEDED A FOCUSED PROGRAM TO SUPPORT THE REPATRIATION OF THE GREEK-ORTHODOX COMMUNITY MEMBERS OF TURKEY

5) The Establishment of Research Institutes in Istanbul with the support of EFC scientists dispersed in many countries. This proposal is linked with the effort of Repatriation efforts. EFC has ready proposal for the establishment of 3 research centers in Istanbul in technological and physical science fields

Results: No RESPONSE

Proposals Submitted to Government of Turkey by EFC on Remedy and Reparations (6)

Solution of Educational Problems in the Community Schools in Istanbul: The serious problems in the Greek schools because of state policies before 2003 has been alleviated. Progress has been achieved in the fields: provision of text books in Greek language, the attitude of vice directors appointed by the state, an interim solution on the registration of students not holding citizenship of Turkey as “visitor students” – though this needs to find a final solution, the first time from 1923 the Ministry of Education provided to Greek Schools funds as provided to public schools.

An important problem to be solved is the status of Minority Schools while being Public institutions are treated as Private schools.

The reopening of the Greek Schools in the island of Gokceada-Imbros recently, after 50 years following their closure in 1964 in the framework “Dissolution Program” against the Greek-Orthodox Communities of the two islands of the Aegean sea.

Proposals Submitted to Government of Turkey by EFC on Remedy and Reparations (7)

The Re-acquisition of the rich Archive and Library of the Greek Literary Society of Istanbul, which has been one of the most influential scientific association during the period 1862-1922, while its archive and books has been confiscated and scattered to various library in Ankara in 1930's. EFC proposes the reacquisition of the books and rich archive and host in a Greek Foundation in Istanbul.

Result: No response.

Establishment of Representation of EFC in Turkey: Although 12 months has passed since the submission of application to Ministry of Interior of Turkey no response has been received.

Conclusions

We ask from the European Parliament:

- To consider the issue of remedy and reparations towards victim communities of mass scale violations of human rights as a priority issue in the framework of human rights legislation and political initiatives. After all every region of Europe had similar tragic experiences like the ones of the expatriated Greek-Orthodox Community of Istanbul. Therefore this will have positive implications to many communities.
- To support the efforts of EFC since this is important to strengthen the rule of law and democracy in the Republic of Turkey for its membership to European Union.
